

Highlights

- Middle Cambrian diversity peak at 498.8 Ma in eastern Asian trilobites
- Rarefaction analysis confirms peak robustness after sampling standardization
- Regional faunal differentiation between China, Korea, and India documented
- Integration of formation and zone data reveals complementary diversity patterns
- Hierarchical clustering identifies distinct middle and early Cambrian faunal groups